Call for Papers Innovative Gender as a New Source of Progress Conference

Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland
Collegium Maius
4-5 July 2016

We invite academic papers submissions for the InnoGend Conference on the role of gender in the process of innovation. We believe that gender diversity is not sufficiently exploited in the context of innovativeness. Insufficient use of gender-differentiated innovativeness hampers economic and social progress by limiting the pool of potential talents. Application of innovative gender concept in economic and social policy is a step towards innovation-based growth.

The conference will be organized around the following themes:

- the contribution of gender to the smart growth based on knowledge and innovations
- the specificity of gender and innovations in shaping better quality of life
- different types of innovations as a new source of progress from the perspective of gender
- the effectiveness of public policies in the context of gender and innovations

Submissions: Please submit Abstract of a paper by March 1, 2016, including the contact information for the corresponding author.

Notification of acceptance will begin on March 10.

Full papers should be sent by April 30, 2016.

Please send Abstracts to Anna Zachorowska-Mazurkiewicz anna.zachorowska@uj.edu.pl

Detailed program will be available in March 2016 on the conference website <http://innovativegender.pl>
